Alan Tattersall ,from Australia, was preparing to go to Houston for business. He would spend 32 hours on the plane.His 17-year-old daughter, Grace, thought her father's snoring（打呼噜）was so bad that the passengers around might be upset. Then she did something really special. "I've learnt it from some young moms.They give out little care bags when they have babies on planes, because their babies might be crying."Grace explained.

With the help of her mother, Grace went out and bought chocolates and earplugs（耳塞）, and put them into 10 little care bags for Alan to hand out on the plane.They also put handwritten notes into them to say sorry for Alan's snoring.

"Enjoy your trip today,"the note begins. "We think you might need a little help if Alan falls asleep---so hope this little care bag helps."

"PS: The snoring usually only lasts a short time— while he falls asleep."

Alan himself had no idea Grace and her mother were preparing the bags.When they arrived at the Melbourne Airport, they handed the bags over and told him to give them out.

Alan did as he was told—or at least he tried to. He said people were so busy listening to their own music or watching movies and didn't rally care.Anyway he handed some out before the plane took of. And some passengers really loved them.

What can you do to help yourself get out of stress or worry? If you're an artist, you keep making art. And if you have never considered yourself an artist, now is the time to take up an artistic hobby such as drawing or painting. It is never too late to start. Everyone can do it. If you can hold a brush or crayon, you can create art.

Creating art heals (治愈) not only the mind and spirit but also the body since all of these are connected. As you draw or paint, your breathing slows, your blood pressure lowers, and your mind lets go of daily problems. This slowing down allows you to fully experience the moment. The process not only relaxes you but also brings a feeling of joy, increasing your energy and enthusiasm (热情) for life.

Making art also allows you to play, freeing you to find out and try out new materials and methods. It also lets you express pleasure by seeing beauty where others may not. Creating art provides you a special chance to express your anger or upset, as well as your personal ideas.

Although the process of making art is the most important part, your finished product is significant too. Your painting or drawing will remind you of the lessons you learned while making it, and you may feel energetic just by looking at it.

If you don't know how to begin, here are some ways to start creating art. If possible, set aside a small table with your brushes and watercolors so you can get creative whenever you get inspiration. Without thinking much about it, just choose colors that you like and start painting with them, or cut pictures with those colors out of magazines and glue them down, combining (结合) them with paints. The act of enjoying the colors and working on the color combinations will give you something to focus on instead of the stresses of your daily life.

71. What do you need to do if you start making art according to Paragraph 1?

- A. Ask a teacher for help.
- B. Start as early as possible.
- C. Be a young artist first.
- D. Just have a brush or crayon.

72. What can you learn about making art from Paragraphs 2 and 3?

- A. It is good for our health.
- B. It causes high blood pressure.
- D. It helps us solve daily problems.
- C. It's like playing games.

73. Which of the following best explains "significant" underlined in Paragraph 4?

- A. Expensive.
- B. Useless.
- C. Important.
- D. Unexpected.

74. Which of the following is NOT true about how to start making art?

- A. You must be very careful while choosing colors.
- B. You can begin painting whenever you get inspired.
- C. You can get brushes and watercolors for preparation.
- D. You may use magazines to make color combinations.

75. What's the writer's purpose of writing the text?

- A. To tell us how to be an artist.
- B. To introduce the history of art.
- C. To encourage us to make art.
- D. To teach us how to choose colors.

C

Have you ever had lucid(清醒的)dreams?

Recent studies suggest that the number of people having them is on the rise. Someone having a lucid dream realizes they are dreaming and may from then on "direct" the action. Or they may simply "watch" the dream unfold. The sense of awareness (知道) makes it different from a dream that is simply very lively and true to life. And although the description may seem strange, the process is far from alien to many of us.

Studies suggest that the number of people in the Western world experiencing lucid dreams, which happen once in a while, has risen by between 10 and 40 per cent since the 1980s. Today, they are so common that about one in eight of us will have one in our lives. But still, little is known about what causes them or what is behind the rise.

Research carried out at the respected Harvard University in the US shows that the brain is working hard during lucid dreams. In fact, the level of the mental (精神的) activity in some parts of the brain is similar to that of a person who is awake. Lucid dreamers seem to share certain personal characters. For example, in general they are quite creative. They are also good at digging deep into problems and going out of their way to solve them. Furthermore, they always believe in personal responsibility rather than letting society carry the can.

Our nightmares (噩梦) may show our waking worries, with the five most common ones——falling, being run after, feeling disabled, being late and the death of a loved one. Men are more likely to have nightmares about fights or being fired while hair and tooth loss appear more in women's nightmares---perhaps showing worries about losing their looks. Research has also found that women have more nightmares than men. Their dreams are also scarier and more unforgettable

76. What do we know about lucid dreams according to Paragraph 1?

- A. We know nothing about their process.
- B. Fewer people are having them now.
- C. They are just common lively dreams.
- D. They may be directed by the dreamers.

77. Which of the following is true according to Paragraphs 2 and 3?

- A. The cause of lucid dreams remains a mystery.
- B. The brain is inactive during lucid dreams.
- C. Most western people have had lucid dreams.
- D. Lucid dreamers have nothing in common.

78. How is Paragraph 3 mainly developed?

- A. By listing numbers.
- B. By giving reasons.
- C. By providing examples.
- D. By making comparisons

79. Compared with men, which of the following dreams do women often have?

A.Fights. B. Being fired. C. Feeling disabled. D.Hair loss

80.Where is the text most probably from?

A.A news report. B.A science magazine. C.A story book. D.A sports poster.

When I was in middle school, I took a word processing class at my town's public library.

When my mother picked me up, she asked me how it was. 101

Ethel was an old lady, who shared her first name with my grandmother. She was taking the class to learn the skills she needed to communicate with her friends and family using the computer. During the period, we enjoyed each other's company (陪伴). 102 And she, I imagine, felt happy that a young person took an interest in what it was like for her to be learning something new.

103 Now that I'm older, I get to grow in both directions, from starting a conversation with an older person I'm sitting near on a bus, to asking my young neighbor about her after-school job.

104 Younger people in the relationship can learn from the view and experience of the older people, who have often "been there, done that". And they might also get a more positive (积极的) idea about getting old by spending time with older people who are living their lives with energy and optimism.

Intergenerational (隔代的) friendships are also helpful to older people in some way. Feelings of loneliness or sadness are common among older people. 105 Older people might enjoy telling stories that fascinate younger people. They might also get the opportunity to learn and use new skills in technology and communication.

- A. I felt grown-up and valued by this old lady.

B. These feelings will be very harmful to them.

C. But making young friends can make a difference.

One possible version:

Dear Linda,

We are going to have a tea culture festival in our school. I am Wang Hua, president of the student union. I'm writing to invite you to attend the festival, which will be held in the auditorium from 7:00 to 9:00 on the evening of September 27th.

The tea culture festival includes three activities. Firstly, we will have a report about the history of Chinese tea. Next, we will enjoy a tea art performance, learning how to make and taste tea in person. In the end, there will be an activity, "Tea and Poems", where traditional Chinese poems about tea will be shared. I know you are very interested in Chinese tea culture, and I am sure you will have a good time. Would you please let me know soon if you can accept my invitation?

I'm looking forward to your reply.

Yours,
Wang Hua
