Online study can be hard. Zech Hipp was doing it with great difficulty. Zech is 15 years old. He lives in Seattle, Washington, with his four brothers and his mother.

"It's hard to stay focused," he said. "I can't stay focused on one thing at a time." Zech has gotten some helpful advice from his "Big Brother" Owen Kim. Kim is 33 years old. He is Zech's mentor through a program. The program is called Big Brothers Big Sisters of Puget Sound.

A mentor is someone who gives help and advice. Kim and Zech often text, talk over the phone and even video call. Kim gave Zech some advice about how to stay focused while doing school at home. Kim suggests picking one space and always doing your work there. "Make that space as comfortable as possible," he said.

In his room, Zech set up a cubby (小房间). He has a place where he can make tea. This was Kim's idea. Here, Zech said he is more separated from everybody else in the house. That's where he does schoolwork.

Kim and Zech have been Big Brother and Little Brother for four years. They used to meet once a week. They would walk through the city or play video games. In spring 2020, COVID-19 started spreading. Kim and Zech had to stop meeting up in person. The illness spreads easily between people. Now, they only communicate over the phone or video call.

Kim is older than Zech. He has had different life experiences. When they talk, Kim can give Zech a different point of view about life. Zech said this is helpful. Kim said it's been a great thing for him, too. He said Zech has been a wonderful addition to his life.

"Owen's always there," Zech's mother said. All of her boys have had Big Brothers or Big Sisters. "It has done such wonders for our family," she said. "Just having them in our lives has been such a blessing."

66. What do we know about Zech from Paragraph 1?

- A. He lives in a big city in India.
- B. He had trouble learning online.
- C. His mother is too hard on him.
- D. There're five people in his family.

67. What is talked about in Paragraph 2?

- A. Why Kim and Zech studied together.
- B. When Big Brothers Big Sisters started.
- C. What good advice Zech gave to Kim.

D. How Kim became Zech's "Big Brother"

68. Why did Zech set up a cubby in his house?

- A. To get a new job and do his work there.
- B. To have a space to study with his brothers.
- C. To make a special space for schoolwork.
- D. To make a space for him and Kim to meet.

69. Because of the spread of COVID-19, Kim and Zech had to _____

- A. part with their family
- B. stay at home watching videos
- C. meet up at Zech's home
- D. talk on the phone or video call

70. What's the writer's purpose of writing the text?

- A. To introduce a helpful program.
- B. To help a boy named Zech Hipp.
- C. To show us how to study online.
- D. To stop the spread of COVID-19.

D

Scientists have long predicted that warmer temperatures caused by climate(气候)change will have the biggest influence on the world's poorest people. New research now suggests that has already happened over the past years.

A study coming out in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Science found that in most poor countries, higher temperatures are more than 90% likely to have resulted in a fall in economic output(经济产量), compared to a world without global(全球的)warming. The influence has been less big in richer countries—with some even benefiting(获益) from higher temperatures.

"We're not saying that global warming created inequality(不公平)," says Noah S. Diffenbaugh, the writer of the study and a professor at Stanford University who studies climate change. But "global warming has slowed down the improvement". The poorest countries are facing the worst influence of rising temperatures—for which they are least responsible, he adds.

The new study builds on past research. A 2015 study in the journal Nature predicted that the average income(平均收入) in the poorest countries will be 25% lower by 2100 compared to a world without warming, while some of the richest countries—like the USA—could experience an increase in income. And a report from IPCC, the UN's climate science body, showed that if global temperatures rise more than 1.5°C by the end of the century, poor countries will likely face very serious challenges, including the disappearance of whole communities and millions of early deaths. "They will suffer the most, as they are already," said Mary Robinson, who used to be a UN Special Envoy on Climate Change and a president of Ireland.

The influence is greater elsewhere, especially in sub-Saharan, African countries including Sudan, Burkina Faso and Niger, where climate change has driven the average income more than 20% lower "There are a number of ways by which temperature influences economic activities," says Diffenbaugh What's clear is that, for poor countries, the news is all bad.

71. According to the text, warmer temperatures

- A. are mainly caused by poor countries
- B. may bring advantages to rich countries
- C. had no influence on the world before
- D. can improve the poorest people's health

72. What does "suffer" underlined in Paragraph 4 most probably mean in Chinese?

- A. 供应
- B. 犹豫
- C. 遭受
- D. 谋利

73. Which of the following will face great economic problems caused by climate change?

- A. The UN.
- B. The USA.
- C. Ireland.
- D. Burkina Faso.

74. What is the main idea of the text?

- A. Climate change will make poor countries poorer.
- B. We must take action to deal with climate change.
- C. Climate change can cause millions of early deaths.
- D. People make good predictions about climate change.

75. From which is the text most probably taken?

- A. A geography textbook.
- B. A health magazine.
- C. A research paper.
- D. A storybook.

Listen. What's that in the background? Is it rock, country or classical music? 86 _____

"Music makes both the left and right brain more active, and this can maximize (使最大化) learning and improve our memory," says Dr. Masha Godkin, a professor at Northcentral University.

According to Godkin, it's good to listen to classical music while you are studying. 87 _____ You can also listen to meditation (冥想) music, which can relieve stress and relax your mind.

It is helpful to create a playlist of the best study music. Everyone's taste in music is different, but when it comes to creating the best study music playlist, here are some tips to consider:

- Go Classical

You may not want to go to a concert of classical music, but the sounds of the classical music seem to increase mood and productivity (效率) 88 _____

- Consider Tempo

It seems that music with 60-70 beats a minute like Beethoven's Fur Elise can help students study longer and memorize more information.

- Nature Sounds

89 _____ They make great background noise. You can even create your own mix with websites like Noisli.

- Electronic Music

Electronic music is a great choice for those who don't like classical. Any music with little to no lyrics is best.

- Sound Control

The volume of your study music is important. Don't drown out (淹没) your own thoughts.
Remember, it's supposed to be in the background.

90 ____ Please write to us and let us know what music helps you get through school!

- A. This makes it great for studying.
B. What do you think of country music?
C. One reason is that classical music has no lyrics.
D. The sounds of birds, wind and rain are relaxing.
E. We would love to know what's on your study playlist.
F. Did you know that some kinds of music can help you focus?
G. However, you are not expected to listen to music in the classroom.

One possible version:

Learn from Failure

Nobody likes failure, but we can always learn something valuable from it.

Last term, there was an English speech contest in my school.I decided to take part in it, because I thought I was good at speaking English and I had some experience in giving speeches.I was sure I could win the contest easily, so I spent little time practicing. Did I win? Of course not. The winner was Jim, one of my classmates, who had practiced after school every day.

"Practice makes perfect",as the saying goes. No one can succeed without hard work.This is what I learned from my failure.If there's another chance, I'll take it seriously and do my best.

Once upon a time, there was a king. His son was dying. Only the water from a lake very far away could save the prince. The king promised half of his gold for the water.

The news reached a farmer and his two sons and young daughter Lisa. "Let's go to find the lake and its magic water," said the two sons. But after many days of difficult travel, they didn't find the lake. They brought some water from a river to the king. Of course the prince didn't get well and the king would kill the two brothers for cheating him.

Lisa decided to go herself, taking some corn to eat. She walked all day, then she stopped to rest. She noticed three birds in the trees above her. "Please share some of my corn!" she said.

"Thank you! Where are you traveling?" asked the birds. Lisa told them the story.

"A long, dangerous journey! You need our help," said the birds. They gave her a magic leaf,

"Make a wish, and shake the leaf. Your wish will come true," they told her.

Lisa made a wish to be at the lake. She shook the leaf, and then there she was! Lisa got the magic water and brought it to the king. The prince drank the water and was saved. "Take half of my gold!" said the king. Lisa didn't want the gold. She asked the king to free her two brothers. The king agreed. Then Lisa and her two brothers went home together.

Learn from Failure

Nobody likes failure, but we can always learn something valuable from it.

Last term, there was an English speech contest in my school. I decided to take part in it, because I thought I was good at speaking English and I had some experience in giving speeches. I was sure I could win the contest easily, so I spent little time practicing. Did I win? Of course not. The winner was Jim, one of my classmates, who had practiced after school every day.

"Practice makes perfect", as the saying goes. No one can succeed without hard work. This is what I learned from my failure. If there's another chance, I'll take it seriously and do my best.
