May 11, 2022

Dear Grandma,

I wanted to write you a note to say thank you for my presents. They came in the mail on May 10, the day before my 13th birthday. I love the books! How did you know that I was reading the stories on ancient China? Did my dad tell you that I was interested in that topic?

I also loved the soccer clothes. My spring season starts in a few weeks, and I can wear these clothes for my soccer practice every Friday. I really hope I can score a few goals this season. I'm going to work really hard to try to make that happen.

When will you be able to visit me here? I miss you so much and hope we can see each other soon. I know the plane ride can be a long one, but I really hope to see you.

I love you, Grandma. Thanks again for my birthday presents.

Sincerely,

Greta

Scientists say that hobbies can make kids smarter, healthier and even more successful when they grow up.

How?

They Help You Learn

When you have a hobby, you learn new things. You have to read instructions. You look at websites, magazines and books to get more information about your hobby. More reading makes you a better reader and a better learner.

They Help You Be Creative

For many hobbies, such as building model cars and making pottery, you have to use your brain as well as your hands. We learn by doing things and by touching things. These kinds of activities make people more creative.

They Help You Be Relaxed

Having a hobby makes you feel good. Scientists say, “When you make something, the ‘feel-good’ part of your brain gets a message. It makes you feel happy. “ When we feel happy, we have less stress. Too much stress can make people sick.

They Help You Build Skills

People with hobbies learn how to set goals and solve problems. Learning these skills when you are young can help you when you grow up. For some kids, having a hobby can be the first step to finding a satisfying job in the future.

41. According to the text, in how many ways can hobbies help kids?

- A. One. B. Two. C. Three. D. Four.

Tyler had broken his arm in a bicycle accident. A car knocked Tyler down when it came out of a side street without stopping. The accident happened because there was no stop sign at the corner and the car didn't stop. So Tyler decided to try to get the city to put up a stop sign.

First, Tyler wrote a petition (请愿书) to have a stop sign put up with his parents' help. Then, Tyler and his parents asked their neighbors, friends, teachers, classmates... almost everyone they knew to sign the petition. Soon, there were hundreds of names on the petition.

Tyler also got some information about other accidents at the same corner where he had had his own accident. If he could show the city that it was a dangerous corner, they might put up a stop sign there. He hoped that this information and his petition would work.

When the petition was ready, Tyler and his parents went to a meeting of the city council (政务委员会). They brought along the petition and the other information. After a long wait, Tyler got a chance to tell what had happened to him. He told the story of the bicycle accident and explained his idea. If there were a stop sign at the corner where the accident happened, other kids would be safer.

After that, Tyler read the petition out loud. Then, he handed it and the other information to the council. The city council agreed to consider the request and make a decision before their next meeting.

The next month, Tyler and his parents attended another meeting of the city council. The head of the city council announced that the city had decided to agree to the petition! There would be a stop sign at the corner where Tyler had his accident. Now other kids would be safer when they rode their bikes.

46. Why did Tyler have the bicycle accident at the corner?

A. Tyler rode rather too fast.

B. There was no stop sign.

C. The car ran the red light.

D. The street was crowded.

47. What was the first thing Tyler did to have a stop sign put up at the corner?

A. He found out about other accidents.

B. He explained his idea to his neighbors.

C. He wrote a petition for the stop sign.

D. He attended a meeting of the city council.

48. When did the city council agree to the petition?

A. As soon as Tyler handed it.

B. After Tyler's parents handed it again.

C. After about a six-month wait.

D. Nearly a month after Tyler handed it.

49. How would the other kids probably feel when the new stop sign was put up?

A. Thankful.

B. Nervous.

C. Embarrassed.

D. Proud.

50. What can we learn from the text?

A. It is dangerous for people to ride bikes in the street.

B. Only adults have the responsibility to present a petition.

C. Kids can play a role in making their neighborhoods better.

D. Stop signs are supposed to be put up at every street corner.

D

Have you ever met large changes in life and work? How would you feel in most cases? In fact, we all have to go through the grief cycle(悲伤周期), which has the following periods:

The first period: “It can’t be happening.”

Anger: “Why me? It’s not fair.”

Depression: “I’m so sad. Why do I have to do all of these?”

Acceptance: “It’s going to be OK.”

I’m honestly not sure how scientific this model is, but I certainly believe that you will work better after going through these major changes.

Find out what your anger does for you—good or bad?

What does being angry do for you? Think back to the situation where you have been angry at work and ask yourself how it influences you, including: your relationship with co-workers, the quality(质量) of your work and health, how you feel outside of work, your relationship with friends and family.

Find out what makes you angrier and less angry.

What makes you angrier? Which thoughts, situations, people or conversations set you off? And what makes you less angry? I’m sure you are not angry all the time. What makes you calm and stops you from feeling angry? Find out. Then start doing less of what makes you angry and more of the things that cool you down.

Focus on gratitude.

What are you grateful for? As I mentioned above, anger is part of the grief cycle which is connected with what you lose. Gratitude is the opposite of loss because it comes from the good things you have in your life. It’s simple. Every evening, sit down with a piece of paper and make two gratitude lists: three things I was grateful for at work today; three things I was thankful for in life today.

Change your focus from “What was done to me” to “What I can do”.

I know this is the basic piece of all self-help advice. Life is 10% about what happens to you and 90% about how you deal with it, or you must take responsibility for your own situation, rather than be a victim(牺牲品) of it. That kind of advice can get pretty boring. But that doesn't make it less true.

51. Why does the writer begin the text by asking questions?

- A. To explain facts. B. To express disagreement.
C. To give opinions. D. To catch the readers' interest.

52. What's the writer's suggestion about dealing with anger?

- A. Love friends and family. B. Do things that make you peaceful.
C. Be friendly to co-workers. D. Write down what makes you angry.

53. What does the underlined word "gratitude" most probably mean?

- A. Thanks. B. Safety. C. Courage. D. Praise.

54. Which of the following best describes the last piece of advice?

- A. Creative. B. Special. C. Valuable. D. Doubtful.

55. What is the text mainly about?

- A. What the grief cycle is about. B. How to deal with the grief cycle.
C. What causes the grief cycle. D. How the grief cycle influences people.

Leading young people to take up physical exercise is really important. 66 But a report recently shows that only half of girls who were questioned by researchers enjoy doing sports. 67 What are the reasons? Because of their dislike of the clothes they are asked to wear and the lack (缺乏) of facilities (设备) to do their hair afterwards. As more girls than boys fail to take part in physical activities, this is seen as a problem that needs dealing with.

Many of the girls questioned said they disliked wearing the skirts that are often part of PE clothes and that the clothes should be more comfortable to wear. The girls wanted to have the chance to say what the PE clothes should look like. They suggested clothing should cover more of their bodies, such as leggings and high-necked shirts.

68

Another key problem the girls reported was not having the facilities available to do their hair after they had taken part in exercise. The girls being interviewed wanted private space where they could get changed. They felt schools should supply hairdryers so that they could style their hair. 69 They could use this time to do their hair and make sure they looked the same as they did before the class.

The researchers argue that since girls worry a great deal about how they look during their teenage years, it is important that schools take these problems seriously. 70 Some teachers feel sports should keep youngsters' minds off how they look. It should help them see the value of keeping physically fit, enjoying team spirit and achieving their success and not worrying about what their hair looks like.

- A. Girls had the following problems with PE classes.
- B. Even a quarter of them actually avoid taking part.
- C. However, not everyone agrees with the suggestions.
- D. They also required 15 minutes at the end of the PE class.
- E. Surprisingly, most girls don't agree with this suggestion.
- F. PE classes are one way of getting young people to do this.
- G. They also thought the materials used were not good enough.
